

Healthcare Consultant Launches Professional Speaking Engagements Tour for Healthcare Industry

Healthcare providers, hospitals, educators, physicians, insurance agents and administrators nationwide can now benefit from motivational speeches and training from healthcare consultant James Lloyd, who has launched a tour of professional speaking engagements with 9Screens International, a dynamic organization committed to the healthcare industry and motivating professionals to expand their outlook on life.

(PRWEB) September 13, 2005 -- Healthcare providers, hospitals, educators, physicians, insurance agents and administrators nationwide can now benefit from motivational speeches and training from healthcare consultant James Lloyd, who has launched a tour of professional speaking engagements with 9 Screens International, a dynamic organization committed to the healthcare industry and motivating professionals to expand their outlook on life. As a premier healthcare consultant, Lloyd speaks to hospitals and physicians nationwide with educational topics like “Dazzling Patients.”

Healthcare consultant Lloyd's motivational speeches and training topics specifically touch on customer service, motivation, loyalty and change in the healthcare industry. Customer service issues in healthcare are crucial to honoring the patient of the twenty-first century and span not only better patient care, but also ways to discourage the growing number of malpractice suits.

Because Lloyd is a professional healthcare consultant, his teaching methods are designed to lower turnover rates, improve patient/client satisfaction and lower the frequency of malpractice suits while saving healthcare providers millions of dollars. His motivational topics include how to deal with change due to mergers and acquisitions in the healthcare industry, how to help employees develop their potential on their personal and professional lives, and how to improve sales and loyalty among customers and patients.

“Healthcare providers today are embarking on new ground,” said healthcare consultant James Lloyd of 9Screens International. “Hospitals, insurance agencies, physicians and educators throughout the country are signing up for a series of events to provide their staff with continuous motivational tools and training. Healthcare companies are aware not only of the benefits of this training, but also of the economic benefits of long term training which is easily measured via ROI studies.”

Healthcare consultant Lloyd worked with Fortune 40 company WellPoint Health Networks, Inc., for eight years. His methods for motivation, training, and customer service were instrumental in saving the company $4 million in one location by lowering turnover rates from 39% to 11%.

“Lloyd was asked to speak as a healthcare consultant to physicians, hospital administrators, agents and brokers at very high profile events,” said Mary Taylor, Staff Vice President of WellPoint Health Networks. “Without exception, participants mentioned Lloyd's speech as the high point of the event. It was evident he had researched the organization and the audience.”
